Project : Cyber Bullying- a real threat from the digital world

In the modern era of cyber bulling technologies, it's very relevant and real threat. It promotes the spread of oppression, psychological violence, aggression like traditional bullying. It unlike bullying has more means of psychological violence . There is even more means of expression in this case : high anonymity, that's you have more opportunities to do what you face in virtual space .You can easily reach out to anyone you want to spread aggression to. The method used by children and adults for cyber bullying is as diverse and different as the technologies available to them: from sending threatening or intimidating messages to hacking an email account and misappropriating online identities. Given these threats, I consider the implementation of the project to be very important, especially in a pandemic, when children are even more addicted to technology and the threat of cyber bullying has increased significantly.
